YOUNG SINT MAARTEN HISTORIAN JEAN-MARC AUGUSTY MEETS WITH MINISTER ARRINDELL

Minister Arrindell met with young Sint Maarten historian Mr. Jean-Marc Augusty, who travelled to the Netherlands for a research visit. Mr. Augusty conducted research at Leiden University, supported by the Ministry of Education, Culture and Science (OCW), with additional sponsorship from the Plantz family.

During his visit, Augusty consulted historical materials at the Nationaal Archief and the University of Amsterdam, including rare maps of Sint Maarten. The discussion also highlighted challenges in securing funding and timely access to information for academic research, including delays in requests to certain entities.

The meeting addressed broader heritage matters, including the state and location of Sint Maarten's historical archives and the need to review and update the monument ordinance, which Augusty described as outdated and insufficiently enforced. He presented Minister Arrindell with his ongoing research and noted that he is exploring funding opportunities through UNESCO.

Another concern raised was the erosion of Fort Amsterdam, one of Sint Maarten's most significant historic sites. Augusty emphasized the importance of safeguarding the site and noted that it is not government-owned, raising the question of whether funding, locally or through Kingdom channels, could support reacquisition. Minister Arrindell expressed her appreciation for Mr. Augusty's dedication and contributions to researching and preserving Sint Maarten's history.
